

Venezuela For You!

Introduction

What about Venezuela For You! (V4U)?

We are born of the need to form a project focused on helping the people of Venezuela, using our knowledge and experience in the current, modern and vibrant world of technology Blockchain and Cryptocurrency. We are a group of people coming from every corner of the map, upon interdisciplinary branches but in this case, with one goal in common: bring our science, work and effort in order to give Venezuelans wealth, focused in particular on the food, school, technology and above all, the medical and pharmaceutical.

The situation of patients in terms of the supply of drugs, is promptly worrying. The loop closes with the tactics of the ostrich, as Bolivarian: failing to recognize reality, its diagnosis and its remedies are always wrong. These are the keys to how the country with the largest reserves of crude oil suffers a shortage of 85% for years: every ten drugs that are hunted, are only 1.5. A process that only time and research will quantify the victims causing and already numbering in the thousands, according to ONG's and local experts.

In 2016 the State reduced the list of priority medicines to buy and they left out more complex chronic health conditions: breast cancer, multiple sclerosis, psychiatric conditions, arthritis, hemophilia, transplant, dialysis, HIV, palliative.

The crisis in Venezuela is accelerating the resurgence of malaria, Chagas disease, dengue, the Zika and other dangerous infectious diseases, and threat to derail 20 years of advances in public health, warned experts in a study published in the journal The Lancet Infectious Diseases. Researchers claim that it is possible epidemics spreading beyond the borders of Venezuela, which could cause a health emergency at the regional level.

Another fundamental aspect of people's lives, is severely affected in these days in this country. Underfeeding affects more than 11% of the Venezuelan population, an increase of nearly one million people for a decade before. Venezuela swims upstream. The Bolivarian, immersed in a grave humanitarian crisis, country is the only one in Latin America, along with Belize - which increases hunger. The severe shortage of food available in Venezuela added years a rampant hyperinflation, which leaves products as basic as a tin of tuna out of the reach of the vast majority of citizens. This food crisis, together with the deterioration of political situation, has caused a massive flight of citizens to neighbouring countries.

It is especially sad watch as entire families have had to flee the beautiful and rich country where they were born and have grown up to have themselves and their children a more dignified future, with more opportunities and possibilities.

From Venezuela For You!, we want and work to make that possible, and that all the sacrifices made by the beloved village Venezuelan, to become in their favor and advantage.

Function of our token ERC20 V4U

After the sadness of the departure of a family member, the Venezuelan diaspora has a practical effect for those who remain: the arrival from abroad of money that, outside of the official channels, offers relief to the crisis and hyperinflation. In the decision that most Venezuelans increasingly take to escape the crisis and hyperinflation it weighs the possibility of being away from the livelihood of the families that remain.

How? With remittances. Until a few years ago, one of the problems of Venezuela was the outflow of capital. Now it starts to become a recipient of remittances from the United States, France, Panama, Colombia, Argentina... etc.

Problems in the reception of remittances.

In Venezuela coexist two very different types of change. The reason is the foreign exchange control of the Government. While the official exchange rate of the dollar is at the moment in some 3500 bolivars; on the black market, the reference in the street, outperforms the 3300. (and this varies day after day, hour after hour)

The difference is so abysmal that anyone is going to use a legal path that would lose a lot of money. The Government of the regime considers that indicator of the market as "criminal dollar" and blames it for "induced" hyperinflation. While there may be some speculation, it is the best indicator of the supply and demand of dollars. And before the devaluation of the bolivar, anyone can seek refuge in another currency.

Ways to get money.

Grows the exile of Venezuelans and the sending of remittances. And with them, businesses that seek to satisfy the needs of migrants. One of the services most known and used for Western Union, one of the leading companies of sending money in the world, which would be obliged to make use of the change official, very harmful to users. But now operates with difficulties in Venezuelan territory.

Difficulties with sending from host countries.

The phenomenon of sending remittances has accelerated with the last wave of emigration, that composed of middle and low sectors that decide to leave the country to help those who remain. The figures are going to grow exponentially, but it is still a relatively new phenomenon. In spite of not offering the highest rate, in the exchange offices authorized by the government to receive remittances, very long lines of people looking for the remittances of their relatives from abroad are beginning to be noticed. These queues are also produced in the countries that generate these currencies.
